Forecast For Scotland
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 1600 on Saturday 17 Apr 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Patchy rain in west on Sunday. Dry, brighter in east.

This Evening and Tonight:
A dry evening but cloud increasing in the west then patchy light rain will spread into the west overnight. Southern and eastern Scotland see some clear spells and a frost in places. Strong southerly winds over Hebrides and Northern Isles.

Sunday:
Mainly cloudy with patchy light rain across western Scotland. Dry in the east with some sunshine towards the east coast. Strong southerly winds over Hebrides and Northern Isles, easing later.

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:
Northwest cloudy Monday with occasional rain but dry, bright elsewhere. Cloudier Tuesday with outbreaks of rain spreading southeast and turning cooler. Mainly dry with sunny spells on Wednesday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.